COMFORT TO EVERY BODY

Swegmark[®]
OF SWEDEN

We've been thinking about you since 1937...

...and we intend to continue to do so. Ever since Harry Swegmark founded what is today Swegmark of Sweden, our goal has been to make a bra that will suit you. We are proud of our knowledge and especially of our craft which is not always visible on the outside but which definitely makes a difference on the inside and which means that we constantly strive to develop, improve and innovate.

Our designers ideas take shape at the drawing board, followed by our experienced pattern designers and sample seamstresses who all work together in Borås, where we also have our office and central warehouse that sends goods all over Europe on a daily basis.

The best possible fit and comfort is our biggest focus. We therefore design several different models of underwear with a focus on bras that are of high quality and affordable. That our products provide good support, have different functions and are modern is certain. All in combination with materials that feel nice to have closest to the body and that are manufactured with the environment and ethics in mind.

Swegmark of Sweden AB is since April 1st merged with its Swedish sister company, Abecita AB, and will become Underwear Sweden AB. With a clear focus on sustainability and production in our own factories in Latvia, we see a fantastic potential to coordinate our internal resources and offer sustainable and functional underwear to our customers throughout Europe.

This is important to us - just like you...

Sustainable for people, the environment and society.

Sustainability work

Our sustainability work is based on the three overarching perspectives on economic, ecological and social sustainability, which have their origins in the Brundtland report "Our common future" from 1987.

The report, commissioned by the UN, defines sustainable development as: "Development that meets today's needs without compromising opportunities for future generations to meet their needs".

Translated into our everyday lives and reality, it is about maintaining the highest quality, acting environmentally smart and caring about our fellow human beings - both those we have around us daily and those we may never meet. After all, sustainability is about caring for people, the environment and society.

And we do.

Did you know...

...that all of our products are OEKO-TEX® certified?

OEKO-TEX® Standard 100 is an independent global test and certification system for textile raw, intermediate and final products at all stages of production. The certification means that the textile in the finished product is free of unhealthy chemicals. The certification system was introduced in 1992 and the main purpose is to develop test criteria, limit values and test methods on a scientific basis.

Social sustainability

Evidently with fair values

Social sustainability is not very easy to define. In society, it is about people feeling good and having their rights respected. It does for us too.

Fair values

For us, it is important that both those who sell and all those who wear our underwear should be able to do so with a clear conscience. They must be confident that the products are manufactured under good conditions. It is simply about taking responsibility for people's conditions. Therefore, we strive for good ethical values both internally and externally so that everyone in the entire production chain has good ethical conditions.

Our own production

Through our strategic choice to have our own production in Latvia, head office and central warehouse in Borås and exclusively cooperate with carefully selected suppliers in Europe, we are secure with all workplace conditions.

Fairtrade-certified cotton

As part of our work for social sustainability, we use Fairtrade-certified cotton in most of our cotton garments. When you buy Fairtrade-certified cotton, the producers who grow the cotton are given the opportunity to improve their economy and working conditions. Part of the income is invested by growers in projects for social, economic and environmental development.

Sustainable for people, the environment and society.

Economic sustainability

Exceed customer expectations

For us, it is very simple: if you design and sew clothes that are suitable for both the eye and the wear of time, you contribute to both economic and ecological sustainability. Wear and tear is not for us.

Harry Swegmark, founder

Since Harry Swegmark founded the company in 1937, quality in design and production as well as care in the choice of materials have been important driving forces for us. We have understood the importance of customers coming back not because the underwear they bought is worn out, but because they need more or have told friends about our comfort and quality.

ISO 9001 Certificate

Therefore, it was obvious for us to be early in certifying the quality of our work. As early as 1996, We became the first bra manufacturer in Europe to receive an ISO 9001 certificate. Today, we are certified according to the revision made by the standard in 2015. For us, the certification means that we work for validity in the internal work, in relation to customers, delivered products and services. For our customers, this means that we are dedicated to systematically improving our quality and exceeding their expectations.

Strategic decision

We also see that our strategic decision to own our own production in Latvia and only use European suppliers, gives us control over the economy, which promotes long-term economic sustainability. In 2012, we developed a quality policy to ensure the quality of both products and collaborations. The policy is continuously reviewed and kept up to date against any internal and external changes.

Economic sustainability

Smart, focused and consistent.

In 1998, we became the first company in the lingerie industry to be environmentally certified in accordance with ISO 14001.

First with ISO 14001 certificate

A certification that helps us ensure more efficient use of materials, energy and waste management for minimal environmental impact. But it is also a question of quality - high quality products provide long life and thus fewer garments are thrown away. We have therefore made strategic decisions about what we can influence the most - transport, production and material waste.

All textiles and other materials are delivered by carefully selected and reviewed European suppliers. Through short transports from suppliers to our production in Latvia, we then keep our carbon footprint down. As production is done in our Latvian factory or at carefully selected European subcontractors, the transports of finished products to our central warehouse in Borås are also kept short and efficient. Everything in our production chain takes place in this way close to us with as short transports as possible.

Efficient production

An important consequence of owning our manufacturing is also that we can maintain efficient production with short lead times controlled based on our customers needs and wishes. We can therefore work with small production volumes which minimize the risk of overproduction. Of the residual material that arises from fabrics, lace and accessories, 100 percent is donated to design schools, where it is used by students and teachers in teaching and design projects. In this way, we not only reuse all materials but also help to ensure the regrowth of professions important to our industry.

OEKO-TEX® Standard

All our materials are tested according to OEKO-TEX® Standard, which among other things ensures that there are no harmful substances in them. Furthermore, we use Fairtrade-certified cotton in most of our cotton garments and also continuously increase our use of organic cotton.

Borås - The city of textile

With headquarters in Borås, one of Europe's leading cities in fashion and the textiles of the future, we have great opportunities to work with the best. For example, we have had workshops together with Smart Textiles at the School of Textiles in Borås, where we worked with issues such as "Design to reduce the need to consume" and "Minimize waste". The collaboration resulted in a number of ideas regarding re-use, re-design, production and communication.

Our Materials

Our materials used in our products - explained.

Cotton

Comes from the cotton plant. The cotton is washable and has a good wear resistance. Cotton is a common material in our clothes as it is comfortable to wear close to the body.

Fairtrade-certified cotton is mainly produced in small-scale agriculture. The label is an independent guarantee that the producer is fairly paid for his cotton and is certified in accordance with international Fairtrade criteria.

Organic cotton that is grown according to principles and rules for organic farming. Growers must not use synthetic pesticides or fertilizers, nor genetically modified organisms (GMOs).

Elastan

Is an elastic fiber that is combined with other materials to create a comfortable and stretchy material. Because it is so stretchy, it is often used in materials for underwear and swimwear.

Lycra Beauty is specially developed to meet the requirements and function that you find in e.g. underwear.

Polyester

Polyester is the most common synthetic fiber. The polyester fiber is also dimensionally stable, which means that the garment retains its fit. Polyester fibers conduct/draw moisture away from the skin and out to the surface layer where it evaporates. The material retains its softness and comfort even during sports or when worn for a long time

We use Coolmax® polyester for the best function and comfort in sports bras.

Features:

- Wicks moisture away quickly
- Resistant to fading, shrinking and wrinkling
- Lightweight
- Soft on skin
- Breathable
- Durable
- Dries fast

Polyamide

Polyamide is a synthetic fiber that is strong and elastic and does not wrinkle. It dries quickly and does not absorb moisture. Polyamide is durable and gives the garment a long life.

Reco Nylon

RECO Nylon is a nylon developed on previously, already used nylon, which would otherwise be thrown away. RECO Nylon has the same properties as ordinary nylon, but with less impact on the environment.

3 fantastic benefits of RECO Nylon:

1. 88% less carbon dioxide emissions compared to regular nylon
2. 84% less waste consumption than ordinary nylon
3. 88% less water consumption than regular nylon

Panties/Bodys

We at Swegmark have been manufacturing different types of bodys and panties for over 50 years. This has given us a great deal of experience in terms of quality, comfort and fit. For us, a good belt is one that holds the stomach in, shapes the waist and at the same time lifts the buttocks. Many of our panties have beautiful lace details.
